Why do you think New Visions Charter School choose you as its service provider.

Because of the consultant's expertise in brain stimulation.

What did the school want to accomplish via you services?

At the start short 4 day workshops with staff in a summer program to give an overview of the brain stimulus research and application.

What can you do for the school that it cannot do for itself?

Help them interpret why things are they way they are in the brain and provide training on how to recognize and use the ways the brain works.

What deliverables were expected by the school? Were you able to produce those deliverables on time?

Report Writing, Teacher Workshops, Grant Writing, Statistical Analysis and Interpretation.

What was the most positive aspect of working with the school.

Its fun to be on the cutting edge with use of brain techniques. The work and application is 20 years ahead of its time.

What was the greatest challenge you faced in your experience with the school?

Political struggles in ideology during the early stages. Some people felt that the research on the brain was not appropriate for school use. Additional focus on how and why school should be run caused points of conflict. The use of behavior modification techniques was so heavily concentrated in the ways teachers and other school staff were oriented toward student success that it was difficult to break away from. Such struggles limited us to be 20 years behind where we could have been.

Do you feel the school received the services it paid for? How

Yes. For many years the services provided to the school and involvement with the school were without charge. After the last 15 years they just recently started paying for the services received.

What aspect of your relationship with the school could be improved?

- Nothing. All is good.

On a scale of 1-5, how would you rate your experience with the school? 5
